

Seniors celebrate everything Australia at annual get-together

10 October 2008

Residents at Amana Living's XXXX Home in XXXXX are joining over 600 other seniors throughout the state to celebrate all things Australian during the aged care organisation's annual residents' and clients' party, which takes place on Thursday 23 October at Burswood Resort.

And for their part, seniors have been allocated the state of XXX and have been using their creativity to interpret and represent what Australia means to them individually.

The finished artistic representation will be joined with 21 other pieces of the Australian map at the party, to complete a massive collage which will have been created by residents from Amana Living centres.

Ray Glickman, CEO of Amana Living, says this year's Australian theme has been embraced enthusiastically by everyone at the centre.

"All of the residents, staff and volunteers have very much enjoyed contributing to this year's theme and are looking forward to the party".

"It's a great opportunity for everyone under the Amana Living umbrella to get together in a social environment for what always turns out to be an enjoyable occasion."

Amana Living operates 17 retirement villages, 10 hostels and five nursing homes throughout Western Australia. It provides specialised care for dementia residents and their families, as well as a wide range of community services to people living in their own homes.
